Application No.

Continuation of 11. does NOT place the application in condition for allowance because: Applicant's arguement is not persuasive, therefore the rejection stands.

Specifically, Applicant maintains that the prior art (Bennett) is not enabled even after the examiner pointed out in the previous Advisory Action that there is a retransmission mechanism preventing Bennett's network card from acknowledging lost packets. To revisit the issue, Applicant is directed to lines 3-5 at page 4 of the recent remarks quoting Comer's article: "The sender keeps a record of each packet it sends and waits for an acknowledgment before sending the next packet ...". Thus, as long as the ACK packet is sent out in response to valid pakeet been received (see, e.g., Bennett: col.12, lines 7-11), the above hand-shaking type of protocol would not yield any lost packet been incorrectly acknowledged.

Applicant is reminded that the above opinion had been conveyed to Applicant's representative, Mr. Lauer, on March 17, 2006 over a telephone interview, during which the examiner also offered suggestions regarding possible ways to overcome the prior art of record. As such, it is believed that this enablement issue has been clearly clarified.
